Flannel Board Story

This week the Puppies took part in an interactive story time. After telling the story about “An Old Woman Who Swallowed A Fly” the Puppies used our classroom’s flannel board to recreate the story using the felt animals and insects. The teachers challenged the children to place a character on the board in the order in which they appeared in the story, which was a great way to strengthen their memory and sequencing skills. It was also a fun way to reinforce that print carries meaning and also introduced the Puppies to the different parts of a story, such as the beginning, middle and end.

Exploring The Inside Of Pumpkin

This week we displayed a pumpkin on the table and invited the Puppies to explore it. As we cut open the pumpkin and removed the pulp and seeds we talked about the concepts such as “soft” like the pulp and hard like the seed! The children were encouraged to crush the pulp with their fingers to create a “slimy” substance. What a great science and sensory activity that also helped the Puppies strengthen the small muscles in their hands and their pincher grasp.

Golf Tees On A Large Pumpkin

The puppies enjoyed a unique experience this week as they gently used small mallets to nail golf tees on a large pumpkin. As Griffin carefully tapped the wooden mallet into the tiny head of the golf tee to drive it into the pumpkin, he was strengthening his eye –hand coordination as well as learning how to move his body with increased control and refined direction. This was not only a fun way for the children to be physical, but also gave them an opportunity to explore with every day materials on their own.
