Making our classroom rules come “alive”

This week the Tigers continued talking about how they can build positive and inclusive relationships as they worked in teams to creatively represent our classroom rules. Ben, Hillel, Davone and Elliot worked together to create a poster that captures the “meaning” of one of most important rules, “Be safe with your body and your words”. As they worked, Mr. Rob observed these four boys really listening to and incorporating each other’s ideas about how to decorate their team’s poster which was a fantastic example for Amelia, Isabella, and Allison who were challenged to represent the meaning of another one of our classroom rules, “Show respect to others by listening to and accepting their ideas”.

Fun with pumpkins

This week was all about pumpkins in the Tigers class! First, the children worked together to open and clean out two huge pumpkins during which Adam and Jamie had the fantastic idea to save the seeds so we could roast them for a snack. Later, the Tigers worked together to separate the tiny seeds from the pumpkin pulp and the next day they took turns washing, drying and salting them before cooking them in the oven. Lastly, they enjoyed drawing silly faces and painting the hallowed out pumpkins which they then put on display in the hallway for the younger children at the center to see!
